When will Seattle Public Library and King County Library System reopen their doors?

Nov. 5, 2020 at 6:00 am

In early October, a ray of hope arrived for those eagerly awaiting the reopening of Seattle-area public libraries: Gov. Jay Inslee announced new pandemic guidelines for libraries in Phase 2 counties (which includes King County), which would allow reopening to the public. The rules are strict, with occupancy capped at 25%, but the guidelines seemed to bring hope that long-closed library doors might open again.

But it won’t be happening in the very immediate future, for either Seattle Public Library or King County Library System. While both systems have opened multiple branches for curbside service — i.e., place holds online, pick them up outside the library door — it’ll be a while before patrons can actually enter library buildings. Marcellus
Turner, chief librarian of SPL, said that he hoped to get a few branches open for walk-ins “toward the end of the year”; Lisa Rosenblum, KCLS executive director, said she was looking at “after the new year.”

With curbside service being the only current library reality for physical books and other nondigital materials (both library systems have offered extensive digital offerings throughout the pandemic), some SPL patrons are frustrated at what seems to be a slow pace of reopening: As of the first week of November, SPL has 11 of its 27 locations currently offering curbside checkout; 13 locations offer book return. In contrast, KCLS has 41 locations out of its 50 offering curbside service, and the system began offering such services in early July, a month earlier than SPL began.

 Asked to explain the difference, Turner said it was a frequent question, and said one reason had to do with differences in the way the two library systems are structured and funded. SPL is a city department governed by an independent library board that sets library policy and oversees library finances; the majority of its funding comes from the city’s general fund, allocated through the regular city budget process directed by the mayor and Seattle City Council. KCLS, in contrast, is a “special purpose district” — an independent entity, not part of King County government; it is funded by property tax levies. This means the wheels turn more slowly at SPL, as there are more layers of government oversight involved; KCLS, in contrast, can be more nimble.

A significant factor in the Seattle libraries’ slower reopening, according to communications director Andra Addison, was SPL’s commitment to providing seven-days-a-week restroom access in five branches, beginning in April, as part of a citywide effort to support the hygiene needs of those without homes. “This was at a time when no one was opening restrooms to the public and the city was essentially shut down,” said Addison in an email. “We had to figure out how to talk with staff and the union about this, provide the proper PPE, staffing, establish and implement cleaning protocols, training and more. Other libraries such as KCLS were planning curbside service during that time.”
Turner also noted that SPL’s curbside reopening plans were twice interrupted when the staff had to “stop and reassess our budget, as the city had to address the budget challenges that were occurring.” As the city dealt with significant budget cuts for 2020 and 2021, library workers needed to assist with that planning — often, Turner said, the same workers who were leading the effort to figure out how to best deliver curbside service. “We were pulling them away from one track to work on another. It didn’t stop them totally, but those things did play into it,” he said. (SPL’s rate of reopening is not unique; the San Francisco Public Library system, for example, currently has nine of its 28 branches open for curbside service.)

Focusing on curbside service, for both library systems, has meant learning a new way of working — one that is, in many ways, more complicated than the old. “It takes more staff to do curbside,” said Rosenblum. “I call it concierge librarianship. We’re pulling the books, bringing them out, checking them out for you.” Branches have had to be rearranged to accommodate patron lines safely outdoors, increase storage areas indoors (returned materials have to be quarantined for three days, which requires a lot of dedicated space), and keep staff safely distanced.

Just over one-third of SPL branches are currently open for curbside; Addison cited the size of the buildings (smaller than many KCLS branches) as a factor, and said that after adding the Southwest and Beacon Hill branches early this month, the library’s focus will shift to making plans for reopening. But Turner noted that virtually all of the branches have staffers inside the buildings, to retrieve holds and coordinate delivery. “We have staff working in cohorts to do that work,” he said. “And we have those working from home, developing programs and virtual services that we have to offer. No one is furloughed; there’s work for everyone.” Though many patrons saw delays in getting their holds initially, Addison said that as of Nov. 2, three open-for-curbside branches that had been struggling to deal with a vast backlog of hold requests (Lake City, Ballard and High Point) are now fully caught up.

Meanwhile, KCLS has recently announced an enhancement to its curbside service: lockers, in which library patrons can pick up reserved books, DVDs or other materials. Rosenblum said it was her idea, inspired by Amazon’s ubiquitous lockers. Available at the Bothell and Covington locations, the electronic lockers make contactless pickup easy — and available 24/7, which is useful both now and post-COVID. “They’re beautiful, and they’re user-friendly,” said Rosenblum, who said she hopes to expand the program (paid for by the library’s foundation) to additional locations.

As the library heads look to partially reopening to patrons in coming months, they have similar concerns: adequate supplies, masks and hand sanitizer for both staff and the public; installation of plexiglass in areas where staffers provide direct public service; removal and rearrangement of furniture and computers to accommodate 25% capacity; new protocols for cleaning and staffing; studying issues of airflow in the various buildings. All of this takes time, and won’t be rushed.

“We’re being very careful to make sure everyone stays safe,” said Rosenblum, who noted that even the vague reopening target of early 2021 might be reexamined if coronavirus cases continue to rise. “It’s not that I don’t want to open. I have to follow the mandated [state] protocols and capacity. We’re happy to do that because it’s kept our staff safe.”

Turner cautioned that when library branches do reopen, it may not feel quite the same as before. “We’ve been saying, we’re going to try to make it as familiar to you as we can, but do not expect normal.”

Minutes of Actions and Decisions of the Library Board of Trustees of the Bellingham Public Library as authorized by RCW 27.12.210 and SEC. 7.02 Charter of the City of Bellingham.

Board Members Present: Rick Osen, Rachel Myers, Rebecca Craven, and Jim McCabe

Board Members Absent: Vernon (Damani) Johnson

Library Staff: Rebecca Judd, Annette Bagley, Bethany Hoglund, Jon McConnel, Jennifer Vander Ploeg and Wendy Jenkins

Others Present: Faye Hill, Friends of BPL

Call to order and introductions: Regular session was called to order at 3:30 p.m. by Chair, Rick Osen. Rick welcomed Annette, the new Head of Community Relations.

Approve/modify agenda: Rebecca Craven moved to approve the agenda. Rachel Myers seconded. Motion carried.

Public comment: No comments.

Consent agenda: Referencing the YTD report, Rick inquired if the funds for the automated materials handler (AMH) are included in the Supplies line under Expenses. Rebecca responded that the funding for the sorter is included in the Capital Outlays line. Rebecca Craven, referencing the State Library of Oregon article concerning handling library materials during COVID-19, asked if we would be reevaluating our quarantine time. Rebecca responded that we are following up with the Whatcom County Health Department. Jim McCabe moved to approve the September 15, 2020 Regular meeting minutes and the September 2020 performance and activity measures and financial reports. Rebecca Craven seconded. Motion carried.

Board Chair report: Rick read aloud A Resolution Commending the Friends of the Bellingham Public Library in honor of National Friends of Library Week, October 18-24, 2020 (See Attachment #1. All attachments are located at the end of the minutes). The Trustees approved the resolution by acclamation.
Rick reported that six applicants were interviewed for the upcoming trustee vacancy, adding they were strong group and it was heartwarming to see such library support in the community.

Rick passed on information Damani provided about next week’s Ralph Munro Seminar – Institutional Stress in an Era of Pandemic:
https://chss.wwu.edu/political-science/ralph-munro-seminar-civic-education

Board member reports: Jim reported that Mayor Fleetwood attended last Tuesday’s virtual Cordata Neighborhood Association meeting, where he fielded questions about northside services. Jim shared at the meeting that Rebecca has done a good job listening and communicating with the neighborhood association.

City Council liaison report: no report.

Friends of BPL report: Faye reported the Friends will be holding a Zoom Board Meeting on Wednesday, October 21. They are considering a bookmark contest, plus working on another Food Bank book giveaway, as they continue their efforts to keep the Friends’ name out in the community.

Library Director report: Rebecca extended a welcome to Annette on behalf of the staff.

Rebecca commended Jon for his work on the Verizon hotspot lending program – 20 devices funded with the CARES Act are now circulating. Jon acknowledge the work ITSD and the Collection Services staff contributed to this project. Rebecca shared that a library in Iowa requested permission to use the instruction materials Jon developed.

Rebecca gave a shout-out to another group project – ConnectED is a collaboration with the Bellingham School District that provides a limited use library card to all Bellingham students. There is a limit to checking out physical items, but students have access to all digital resources.

Jim asked Jon if he had received feedback from the AMH company about the sample materials we sent to them. Jon has not heard from them yet.

Rebecca Craven thanked staff for their efforts to get the MyLibro app, for curbside service, ready to launch.

Phase 2 update: Rebecca reported that the MyLibro app has been vetted by IT and Purchasing. The vendor is working to update the software with our specifications. We are hoping it will be up and running before next month’s board meeting.

Outreach services: Colleen Morse, Outreach Specialist, has been communicating with the assisted living and long-term care facilities we provide service to. Typically, we deliver and pickup materials, but cannot do that currently. Jen has recently visited each facility to pick up items that were delivered prior to COVID-19. Colleen is arranging for the selection of materials and coordinating with facility staff to pick up using curbside service.
Rebecca reported that Governor Inslee has issued new orders concerning libraries, including opening at 25% with stringent COVID-19 procedures in place. Rebecca explained we are considering options and she requested the Board provide a consensus on direction, then staff can take that direction and work through the details. We will coordinate reopening with other city departments. Elements to consider:

- Expanding at Central during construction would be challenging, so proposal is to maintain curbside service
- There are many variables for opening branches for browsing; staffing being a concern
- Recommendation to prioritize exploring limited public computer access at Fairhaven Branch to better serve those without computer access

Rachel clarified that the suggestion is we use the 25% capacity at the branches exclusively for computer access. Jim added this would be a reasonable place to start – an internet café at one of the branches. Rebecca Craven asked how the computers are currently configured as social distancing can be a challenge. Faye asked if we know what WCLS is planning. Rebecca responded that their intent is to open branches at 25%. Rick suggested we find out if there are other city facilities where we could set up computer access. Rebecca added that, for health and safety, there is less risk when people are not in an enclosed space for long periods. Rick supported exploring options but advised against overstretching staff.

Facilities update:
- Barkley Licensing Agreement: Rick reported that there was a question about custodial service; Barkley has now offered to absorb the cost through 2021. Rebecca heard from Neal Swanson from Barkley Company today, who conveyed the agreement is finalized and ready for signatures.
- Central Library main floor remodel: Jen screen-shared pictures showing recent progress on the remodel (See Attachment #2 for Highlights from the Main floor remodel).

Rebecca said the project was still on track to be completed near the end of February. Jen added that there were COVID-related delays with the manufacture of the elevator car, but it is expected to ship mid-December. The anticipated AMH arrival date is December 8.

Annual Action Plan 2020 update: Rebecca gave an update on the 2020 Action Plan which included COVID-19-related changes (See Attachment #3 for Library 2020 Action Plan update). Tasks that have been creatively accomplished, despite COVID complications, have been highlighted.

Budget update: Rick explained that City Council is holding weekly afternoon department budget meetings. At this week’s meeting, Rebecca presented the Library Budget PowerPoint covering 2019-2020 Department Achievements, the 2021-2022 Proposed Budget, 2021-2022 Budget Changes, and a 2021-2022 Work Plan (See Attachment #4). Rick commented that Council members were curious about what the Library is doing. Rick summarized that, all things considered, we should feel good about the budget. We have three frozen positions, staff furloughs are being negotiated, but no staff layoffs. The final 2021-2022 budget will be passed by Council in December.
Fundraising discussion: Rick explained that sustainable funding options, such as increasing the General Fund or a levy to supplement the General Fund, were considered in the BERK Bellingham Public Library Services and Funding Models Study completed in 2018. The focus of today’s meeting is to discuss private fundraising ideas. Typically, there are restrictions with private donations such as not using them for operations. Private donations are ideal for one-time funding projects.

Rachel facilitated the discussion, starting with providing some context:
- We have the Friends of the Library who provide consistent contributions for programming and some materials.
- We have the endowed funds at Whatcom Community Foundation (WCF) – the yearly distributions from these funds are unrestricted. The Bragg-Muldrow Endowment Fund will begin distributing in 2021; this will be a significant distribution.
- Library Giving Day was held for the first time this year with a focused project – circulating hotspot devices and service. We could continue with this yearly fundraiser, choosing a priority from the Action Plan to dedicate the funds to.
- Another impactful focus can be promoting bequests.

Rachel suggested we consider choosing a priority that we could focus fundraising efforts around.

Jim mentioned another fundraising method is to get your name on something such as bricks on the Fairhaven Green or Pickford Theatre seats, wondering if the remodel provides any such opportunities. Rachel commented that, in her experience, this was difficult to manage.

Rachel added another way to provide donor recognition is bringing stories to life surrounding donations.

Rebecca Craven stated it’s important to determine what role trustees will play and what role staff will play. She felt strongly that, as a governing board, trustee expectation should not include donating. Rebecca added that Library Giving Day should be built up and developed as a yearly project; perhaps a blast about planned giving could be incorporated into Library Giving Day. She also stressed the importance of determining what we are asking for – to increase materials, or build an endowment, or something for the northside?

Rick agreed that we need to first prioritize before determining the fundraising method. A big-ticket item could be something like Central Library upgrades. For that, a citizen committee would be helpful. Rick also thinks that the programming support the Friends provide is important. He suggested that the library stay involved in helping people be successful in the world, perhaps providing speakers and workshops to effectively pull the community together. Rachel recalled that ‘belonging’ and ‘connections’ were often mentioned in the Community Conversation sessions from Strategic Planning, adding we could plan virtual events with authors or speakers. Rick said that special events like this also provide an easy way to recognize donors.

Jon commented that, as an employee of a city government, he doesn’t want to lose sight of a steady funding stream, such as a taxing district or levy. Jim pointed out an example of this is the Transportation Fund on this November’s ballot.
Rachel suggested we revisit fundraising at next month’s meeting, choosing a focused project for Library Giving Day, April 2021.

New Business:
- No new business

Action items for next meeting:
- Phase 2 update
- Facilities update
- Fundraising follow-up

Executive Session: The Board went into Executive Session at 5:07 p.m. to determine a recommendation to the Mayor, for the upcoming Trustee vacancy. The group decided on a candidate to recommend. They returned to Regular session at 5:18 p.m.

Meeting adjourned at 5:18 p.m.

Next Regular Library Board Meeting – November 17, 2020 – Zoom meeting at 3:30 p.m.

A Resolution Commending the Friends of the Bellingham Public Library

October 2020

Whereas, the Friends of the Bellingham Public Library is an all-volunteer non-profit organization, dedicated to their mission of supporting and advocating for our library; and

Whereas, the Friends raise money for library needs, sponsor programs for all ages, encourage community support for the library, and support literacy by making free reading materials available and offering inexpensive materials at regular book sales; and,

Whereas, our Friends' long-time support of the Bellingham Public Library is an example of the vital role volunteers play in our community; and

Whereas, our Friends' dedication is a demonstration of their commitment to the library and the library's mission to connect our community with each other and the world; and,

Whereas, our Friends in recent years have funded adult and children's books, summer reading programs, Whatcom READS and other special events, online language-learning subscriptions and other online services, furnishings and audio-visual improvements in library facilities, and much more; and

Whereas, many improvements and enhancements in our library have only been possible because of the support provided by our Friends; and

Whereas, we join libraries across the nation in celebrating their strongest and most dedicated supporters -- their Friends organizations -- during National Friends of Libraries Week October 18-24, 2020 and throughout October 2020.

Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Bellingham Public Library Board of Trustees joins the library staff and the Bellingham community to commend our Friends of the Bellingham Public Library and urges everyone to join us thanking the Friends for all they do.

Passed by Library Board action this 20th day of October, 2020.

Rebecca Craven  Jim McCabe  Damani Johnson
Highlights from the Main floor remodel

• Walls are starting to take shape

• Electrical going into the floor next

• The paint colors so far are a lovely update

• The library is going to be so much brighter with new light fixtures
This will be the opening between the front entry area and the library to allow better visual access.

Main floor seating area - being prepped for new electrical in the floor
Finally, the pink trim is disappearing...

The mechanical shaft in the middle of the public computing space – next steps include installing the required fire rating, framing in and then drywall.
The new indoor returns room is framed.

The old single main door to the garage has been enlarged to hold the new sliding door. This will make it easier to move materials between the sorter and loading dock areas.
The space where this pad is now, used to be an empty space where we parked our truck.

New anchor points above the garage door
Will hold the canopy that will cover the space between loading dock and truck

• Supported operations at Whatcom Unified Command, Mayor’s Office, and Citywide Zoom moderation
• Planned and implemented Library Call Center from off-site locations
• Planned and implemented virtual programming such as storytimes, title Tuesday, and book discussion group
• Enhanced digital collections, including Always Available anti-racist reading list

Planned and implemented safety protocols for staff returning to the building; trained all staff
• Planned and implemented new service delivery model: curbside pickup of holds and material returns at Central Library
• Planned, funded, and implemented HotSpot lending program
• Working with ITSD, added wireless access points outside the Central Library and Fairhaven
LIBRARY 2020 ACTION PLAN UPDATE

WELCOME & INCLUDE
We offer welcoming, safe places and experiences, where connections and understanding flourish.

ACCESS & OPPORTUNITY
We connect people with opportunities and resources to solve problems and help them achieve their aspirations.

READ & LEARN
We inspire a lifetime of reading, learning, curiosity, and discovery.

INFORM & INVOLVE
We provide information and activities to stay abreast of community issues and events, fostering informed, active participation in civic life.

THRIVE & GROW
We are a valued community partner and trusted city service, playing a central role in Bellingham life.

PRESENTATION TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, OCTOBER 20, 2020
2019-2020 Department Achievements

• In 2019, the Library circulated just over 1.5 million physical items and just under 300,000 digital items. During the same period, 737,000 people visited the Bellingham Public Library

• 2020-2024 Strategic Plan adopted

• In partnership with the Whatcom County Library System, eliminated collection of overdue fines

• Central Library main floor remodel design work, bid award, and construction

• COVID-19 response, including curbside pickup of holds, WiFi hotspot lending program, and improved wireless access outside Library facilities

DIRECTOR’S REPORT FOR November 17, 2020

With coronavirus cases rising, we are reviewing and updating our workplace safety procedures, including the health questionnaire all staff complete before coming to work. It is a time for renewed discipline in all the ways we can keep ourselves and others safe: mask wearing, social distancing, disinfecting, and hand washing. As new guidelines are released by our County and State health officials in the days and weeks ahead, we will incorporate them into our procedures. (Rebecca Judd, Library Director)

WELCOME & INCLUDE

Impact of teen programming: Teen Services Librarian Jennifer Lovchik received a heartfelt message from a former teen program participant, thanking Jennifer for her years of being a positive and inspirational role model and for her authentic friendship, mentorship and honoring of teens for who they are:

“You and the teen programs at the library had such a positive impact on me at that time in my life and I look back and think about it often. I met you over ten years ago and haven’t seen you in many years but I think about you and the library so much and have seen throughout those years just how much those experiences have helped shape me. You let me and MANY other teens feel like what we had to say was important and I felt so heard and supported by you.

I have been volunteering with incarcerated teens for almost a year now and have been reflecting so deeply on how you treated me during that time in my life. I continue to look to you as inspiration for how I want to talk and interact with the teens because you always made me feel like a person who mattered and whose opinion was important. That is something I hope to emulate even the slightest bit as I continue working with young people. I knew I looked up to you at the time but what I really want you to understand is the lasting influence you have had on my life.

So sincerely from the bottom of my heart thank you so much for what you did for me back then. You helped me in an overwhelmingly positive way back then in a way that not many adults were able to. I’m sure this is not the first message like this that you have received because your ability to reach young people is truly a gift, but I feel like it’s important to get these reminders sometimes.”

Congratulations to Jennifer for modeling what it is to be welcoming and inclusive in positive and lasting ways. (Bethany Hoglund, Deputy Library Director)

Staffing update: Current frozen positions at the Library include: Children’s Services Librarian (40 hours), Specialist 2 (40 hours), and Library Clerk (25 hours). Planning has begun to manage over 4,000 furlough hours in 2021, with a focus on maintaining the highest level of public service possible. Jen Vander Ploeg and Alison Kuiken are interviewing Library Assistant candidates to fill vacancies in that work group. (Rebecca Judd, Library Director)
MyLibro to launch December 7: The configuration is complete and staff training is underway. Beginning December 7, patrons will be able to book an appointment through an app on their mobile device or through a website form to pick up curbside materials, in addition to the option of calling to schedule an appointment. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Public Services and Operations)

ACCESS & OPPORTUNITY

Public Computing at Fairhaven: Over the past month, much as been accomplished in the effort to bring public computing access to the community in response to the Governor’s revised Phase 2 guidelines for libraries. Thank you to Doug Dickinson and Paul Leeson from ITSD for their work in developing and implementing a new computer layout for the main floor at Fairhaven. (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

READ & LEARN

Summer Reading: Congratulations continue for summer readers! The Library has celebrated 64 adults, 26 teens, and 301 children on their 2020 summer reading success to date. Because it is such an unusual year, children and teens are invited to complete an online summer reading form through the end of December to earn a free book of their choosing, mailed to their home. (Bethany Hoglund, Deputy Library Director)

Virtual storytimes return: Regular virtual storytimes for children ages birth – 5 years are available again! Families are now asked to complete a simple registration form to receive the private link to the library of storytimes. Additionally, Children’s Librarian Bernice Chang is now offering a live six-week Baby Time session via Zoom. Bernice reports seven families participating in this class, and she is thrilled to interact with babies and caregivers “in real time” again. (Bethany Hoglund, Deputy Library Director)

Whatcom READS 2021: Whatcom READS has begun to circulate publicity materials for the 2021 program. Bookmarks will be included in our Curbside Holds Pickup bags, and posters will be circulated at key locations in the community. The book for 2021 is Washington Black by Esi Edugyan. The author will present three virtual events for our community March 4 – 5, 2021. Nine additional virtual events have been scheduled beginning Dec. 5 through Feb. 25 on the book’s key themes of race and belonging, as well as the natural world. (Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)
INFORM & INVOLVE

Behind the scenes with BTV: The Library is currently working with BTV to create video profiles of the Central Library Main Floor Remodel project and of our Curbside Holds Pickup Service. BTV staff completed a walk-through of both areas and were impressed with all the activity. Filming will take place this month, and we hope to have videos to air by early December. (Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)

THrive & GROW

Library materials: After discussion with Whatcom County Health Department, the Library has adjusted the quarantine period for materials from 96 to 24 hours. We have also purchased new crates to help manage the additional volume of materials in shipment. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Public Services and Operations)

Collection Services update: Collection Services staff continue to support curbside operations by shelving holds in the morning. This helps Public Services staff prepare for the day and minimizes the number of places to look for holds. In addition to their regular responsibilities, CS staff is also working hard on various collections projects related to the remodel. (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

Main Floor renovations: Much of the drywall is up and taped. The rooftop unit is being installed for HVAC in the new staff area. Door and window frames arrived and have been installed. The new elevator schedule has been proposed and will result in about seven weeks without the main elevator. We are making plans for operating without it, as it will be challenging to run all operations through our smaller freight elevator. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Public Services and Operations)
